Sustainability – The most vital opportunity of the 21st Century?

In the 21st Century, Business sustainability in every sense is one of the most important factors is creating a thriving and stable business community. Our LIVEtalk focuses on how to revitalise your all aspects of your business model by putting sustainability at its heart to drive profitable sales growth, fuel innovation and do the right thing for our kid's generation. Through stories and examples, I explain how re-focussing your business to put sustainability at its heart really can do all that.

Eoin McQuone

Eoin's year career path has taken him from engineering, through marketing to become a company director as I became ever more captivated by driving business strategy. He's an optimist and passionately believes that operating sustainably is rapidly becoming business critical. It's also a great business opportunity.
